Guidelines for Authors to Submit Research Manuscript

Manuscript Structure

- The manuscripts to be submitted in the journal should use the specified format (see at the end of the page)
- The manuscript should be in English, and the word limit of the article is 6500 words.
- The manuscript should be organized as follows:

1. Title page. This should contain
   - A concise, convincing, and informative title (as short as possible, maximum 15 words).
   - A list of authors' names, designations, and affiliated institutions' names.

2. Abstract: The abstract section should cover the following information
   - The purpose of the study should be briefly stated.
   - The clear and precise research problem should be articulated.
   - The methods used to address the research question and study objectives.
   - The significance of the research paper.
   - Major findings and few recommendations of the study.

3. Keywords. A list in alphabetical order, not exceeding 8 words or short phrases.

4. Introduction: The Introduction chapter focuses on:
   - This section highlights the relevant primary research (with in-text citations) and summarizes the current state of understanding of the problem which the researcher (s) aims to investigate.
   - It will state the purpose of the study: explain the hypothesis, research question, and specific objectives.

5. The Theoretical and Conceptual Frameworks: This chapter focuses on the following associated issues:
   - It covers the appropriate research approach or theoretical framework which is strongly connected to addressing the research problem.

6. Materials and Methods:
   - This section clearly explains how you carried out the research.

- It will clearly articulate the research design and mention the sampling procedure applied for the selection of the study site and the respondents (in case of primary research).
- The qualitative and quantitative tools will be brilliantly articulated for data collection.
- In regards to secondary research, the appropriate tools should be applied to present the data.
- The ethical considerations should be accurately included in the chapter.
- In addition, the limitations/problems you encountered during carrying out the study should briefly be mentioned in the chapter.

7. Results: Data Analysis and Findings
   - In the section, you can broadly state the results and draw attention to important details of the findings.
   - You can align the findings with the research objectives you attempt to answer.

8. Discussion
   - You should point out the importance of the results.
   - This section will offer you to connect your findings with other researchers results in the relevant study area.

9. Conclusion
   - You can precisely state the evidence-based implications of the study.
   - The scope of future research will be explored in relation to pointing out the drawbacks of the current research.

10. Citations and References
    - This journal uses the IEEE Citation Style and Harvard/APA style of references.

11. Format
    - Follow Times New Roman format, space 1.25 inch, and font 12. The page margin should be 1 inch in both the right and left margin.

Thank You
